Q. In the course you came across different theories of attentional selection. You are encouraged to consult journal articles (google scholar) and look the original articles propagating some of these theories (the ones you have read, or even more recent ones) and critically analyse them.

Your analyses of the theories should include the premise of the theory, the basic proposals in the theory, its strengths and weaknesses and how does the theory take the field forward. You may also compare and contrast any theories that you may like.

The question should be answered in 1000 words.
